Form 990, Part III, Line 2, New Program Services:

Artist Trust added the CALL (Creating a Lasting Legacy) program to its comprehensive suite of Creative Career Center programs. CALL assists visual artists with the archiving and documentation their work, and ensures the cultural heritage of Washington artists. Through the CALL program, Artist Trust will work with several visual artists; provide professional development training for others as Legacy Specialists; develop a new curriculum focused on archiving and documentation to integrate into ongoing professional development workshops; and research options in the state for artists' work and cultural legacies to be preserved. Information will enhance the artist resource section of the website. The program is funded by the Joan Mitchell Foundation (2012-2014).

Form 990, Part III, Line 3, Changes in Program Services:

Artist Trust expanded its I Am An Artist career-training workshops and created Artist Trust At Large (ATAL), a program which ensures artists throughout the state are aware of and take advantage of Artist Trust's programs and services. ATAL also provides professional presentation training to artists from different regions and ongoing opportunities for public presentation and networking, while expanding the organization's reach to artists and communities around the state. The program is funded partly by The Murdock Charitable Trust as part of the Creative Career Center, which provides artists with the relevant and necessary skills to achieve their career goals. Artists learn best practices in the business of being an artist, increasing their
